

MA LAW (CONVERSION)

LEARNING MODEL AND TIME DEMANDS

OUR COURSES ARE DELIVERED USING

OUR PREPARE, ENGAGE AND CONSOLIDATE (PEC) MODEL

This model encourages independent and deep learning.
The model is shared across both Attendance and Online modes of learning.

PREPARE

You will start your unit study by working through 'Prepare' tasks. These include a number of resources or tasks covering the relevant knowledge in that subject area

INCLUDES

- Reviewing the appropriate material from the relevant media resources.
- Test your Knowledge exercises.
- Independent learning (reading and research).
- Preparatory tasks, including problem-solving, preparing notes of advice, writing, drafting.

ENGAGE

Engage Tasks are the core of the MA Law (Conversion). This is via workshops for attendance students. They are an opportunity for you to review your knowledge, test your understanding, debate and develop ideas, analyse problem questions, get general feedback and advice from lecturers and develop communication and teamwork skills

INCLUDES

- Attempting tasks in a group setting
- Attempting Single Best Answer Questions
- Receiving tailored lecturer feedback.

CONSOLIDATE

Reach your conclusions and/or investigate alternative application of your study through self-guided activities; this is LEARNING ENHANCEMENT

INCLUDES

- Consolidating your notes for future revision (focus on the tasks and outcomes).
- Working through the specific Consolidate stage of the unit which may have short additional Tasks or media.
- Identifying the underlying principles from the tasks so you can apply them to a different set of facts.
- Re-attempting the PREPARE Test Your Knowledge exercises, if necessary, and attempting the CONSOLIDATE Test Your Knowledge exercises.

This model focuses exclusively on the time demands, learning styles, and task requirements specific to the conversion component of this course.

Please note that the MA Law (Conversion) is not a lecture-heavy course in any mode; please do not expect lectures in every unit of study.

The MA Law (Conversion) is delivered asynchronously meaning that this learning will be deadline-driven, to complete by the end of the week rather than in a set 8-hour block.
