1. Introduction

This information is provided by The University of Law (the University) to provide information about the demands of the course for prospective students.

Please note that students successfully completing the LPC requirements may elect for the award of a Postgraduate Diploma in Professional Legal Practice. Alternatively they may elect for the award of (a) MSc in Law, Business & Management if, in addition to the LPC, they successfully complete the Law and Business module and Case-study Project; or (b) the award of LL.M in Professional Legal Practice if, in addition to the LPC, they successfully complete either the Law and Business module or a fourth elective, along with a Professional Practice Research Report.

The information included is an indicative guide for the Full-Time LPC Online commencing in September 2024. Students who enrol on the course will be subject to the Programme regulations in force at that time.

Please note that the final presentation of the Full-Time variant of the LPC Online will be the September 2024 start.

2. Preliminary Knowledge

The Solicitors Regulation Authority expects students starting the LPC to have a basic knowledge of Contract, Tort, Land Law, Equity and Trusts, Public Law, Criminal Law, the structure of the court system, remedies, offences, causes of action and defences, property interests and EU law. It is also assumed that students should be able to:

- Listen effectively
- Engage in oral or online discussion in a clear and concise fashion
- Record or summarise a discussion in clear and concise notes
- Write clearly and precisely with attention to grammar, structure, style, organisation, bibliographies and citations
- Work co-operatively with others in small groups or through the Virtual Learning Environment

- Extract, analyse and apply up to date law from primary sources, including case reports, primary and delegated legislation.

All variants of the LPC are taught at master's level, including the postgraduate diploma. The LLM and MSc programmes are consistent with the QAA's Category 3: professional or practice master's degrees.

As such, "all master's degree graduates have in-depth and advanced knowledge and understanding of their subject and/or profession, informed by current practice, scholarship and research. This will include a critical awareness of current issues and developments in the subject and/or profession; critical skills; knowledge of professional responsibility, integrity and ethics; and the ability to reflect on their own progress as a learner." QAA Characteristics Statement, Master's Degree, February 2020, page 4.

A sufficient command of English to follow the course to a successful conclusion (overall band score of 6.5 with no component below 6.0 in the IELTS test).

3. Pre-Course Demands

There is no compulsory preparation prior to commencement of the course (i.e. prior to induction). However, students may wish to refresh their knowledge of the law, and multiple choice tests to assist with this are provided on the VLE a month before induction. Students also have an opportunity to do some of the preparation for their first classes or online units before induction, as electronic copies of the course materials are available on the VLE two weeks prior to the course.

In addition, it is recommended that all students who are returning to learning complete the Getting Ready for Academic Study module which is available in the Skills4Study package available through ELITE / The Skills Academy

4. Modes of Study and Indicative Time Requirements

Our courses are delivered using the Prepare – Engage – Consolidate (PEC) Model.

- Prepare: at the start of each unit of study you will become familiar with the core principles of your study through self-guided activities, this is 'Learning input'; then
- Engage: discuss, evaluate, and challenge that study through active engagement; this is 'Learning use'; and then
- Consolidate: reach your conclusions and/or investigate alternative application of your study through self-guided activities; this is 'Learning enhancement'.

This model encourages your independent and deep learning. The framework of PEC is shared across both Attendance and Online modes of learning.

You can find more information about how the PEC model translates into the LPC Online in this short presentation

An explanation of the PEC learning model used for LPC Online (15 minutes 30 seconds)

4.1 Learning Model and Time Commitment

Online Time Demand – Full-Time study

Learning format	Hours Full-Time (Indicative)
Prepare - consisting of independent learning and preparation for Engage activities	24
Engage activities - carried out asynchronously (to deadlines) including occasional lectures and weekly Live Subject Support Sessions	12
Consolidate – completing further tasks to bring together your learning and check your understanding	8
Total	44 - 45

The online course requires the same level of commitment as a course you attend in person – the only difference is you do not have to travel to a campus to attend the course. This remains a rigorous Full-Time course of study and will require your active engagement with your study in the region of 45 hours per week. If you cannot devote this amount of time to your study, we strongly recommend you choose the Part-time option

For the online course the time recommended for Prepare and Consolidate remains a minimum requirement of 24 hours per week for Prepare and 8 for Consolidate but some weeks this may be less or slightly more. The overall time demand remains 44-45 hours per week across the Prepare, Engage and Consolidate stages.

Note – the 12 hours for “Engage” is mostly delivered asynchronously, meaning that online students are not scheduled for a specific 12-hour block of time per week to allow for flexible study, with support provided by Live Subject Support Sessions (1 hour per Unit per week) that will be scheduled.

4.2 Engagement Requirements

Our data shows that students who engage with at least 90% of their online units have significantly better prospects of success.

- (Online) In a standard week you will have four units to complete.
- (Online) Online students may attend, if they wish, for Employability events and Library access although there is no obligation to do so.
- (Online) Online involvement in all “Engage” tasks is compulsory and is a measure of engagement with the course, which is used to track progress and provide an evidence base for e.g. references.
- (Online) All students must “attend” their scheduled examinations / assessments in exam weeks, whether you are due to sit online or in a campus. Note that exams and assessments will require you to be available during the day on weekdays and Saturdays.

5. Summary of Key Learning Outcomes

Development of the legal knowledge and skills required to commence legal practice.

6. Learning Environment – Online Mode

- Students study 7 modules required by the SRA (4 core areas plus 3 electives), plus 2 additional modules studied by those wanting a master’s award.
- Students start off studying 4 modules. Master’s students continue studying 4 modules at a time throughout the course, whereas postgraduate diploma students reduce to 3 modules after approximately 2 months.
- The Online learning environment is predominately asynchronous, meaning that students will study in their own time to a series of deadlines that correspond to the weeks in which parallel events occur on the attendance course. It is important that students appreciate that the LPC is not a “lectured” course in any format, attendance or online. Where the occasional lecture is provided for the attendance variant of the course, the same material is provided as a recorded lecture for Online study.
- There are real-time Live Subject Support Sessions with tutors and regular “drop-ins” to provide academic guidance, conducted online through the VLE. These are not lectures. The majority of the initial learning that will enable participation in tasks, as with the attendance variant, is through online tools and reading.
- The Units are delivered on the University’s Virtual Learning Environment (‘VLE’) and in a staged format – Prepare (including automated feedback on any preparatory task for the Unit); Engage (which will involve a variety of learning tools, including occasionally working with other students online to produce documentation) and Consolidate, containing important supplementary exercises. All stages can and will include reading and online content and other media which is recorded and available on the VLE.

Students are expected to participate fully in all Engage activities and carry out independent learning and preparation as directed.

7. Assessments

A summary of the assessment schedule for this programme is explained below.

7.1 Assessment and learning adjustments

If you have any queries regarding support or adjustments whilst studying at the University of Law please contact the Disability and Inclusion Service on disabilitysupportservice@law.ac.uk or 01483 216657.

7.2 Professional Body Assessment Requirements

Some assessments on the Legal Practice Course (LPC) are subject to regulatory requirements from the Solicitors' Regulation Authority (LPC) particularly in terms of supervision of the assessments. The University is not able to waive any such regulatory requirements.

7.3 Summary of Assessment Demands

The Solicitors Regulation Authority (SRA) has authorised the University to offer students a choice of being assessed online or in a campus for subjects that are assessed by examination (Core Practice Area Subjects, Solicitors' Accounts, Professional Conduct, Wills and the Administration of Estates and Electives). Students can sit these exams either in campus as traditional invigilated exams using pen and paper, or in the form of online exams with remote proctoring.

Students will be asked to make a provisional choice of assessment method on enrolment but will be able to change or confirm that choice after having had the opportunity to sit a mock assessment online in proctored exam conditions.

You will also be able to choose whether to sit your oral skills assessments in Interviewing and Advocacy on campus or online. If you choose to sit them online the assessment will be conducted remotely using Collaborate, whereas if you elect to attend exams, your oral skills assessments will be conducted face-to-face in campus.
